Dear Mr. Prieto,

It has just occurred to me that it may be illegal for you to send out catalogues by way of an invitation to your Exhibition. There are curious regulations governing this and it may be necessary for you to print on the catalogue some words, such as "Admit two". Your printer should be able to advise you on this but I thought I would just mention it in case you may inadvertently get into trouble.

We managed to find five frames for the seven pictures you left yesterday, which is a very good proportion. We cannot, however, find anything that fits the portrait of Lord Berners, as this is a very unusual size, and you will have to do something about it yourself.

Yours sincerely,

A. J. McNeill Reid
